I taught with Frannie for 20 plus years and loved her dearly. She was a wonderful Christian lady. She helped me in my career and in my personal life. I am better for having known her. I missed her when she retired and loved to get together with her. I know she is at peace with Jesus. I do miss her.

I first met Frannie when I was a teenager and working for her mom after school. (I'm retired now, so that's been a long, long time ago) Later my son had her for a teacher - either first or second grade. She was such a creative person and my son loved all the artwork they got to do in her class. I eventually ended up becoming a teacher and I taught with her many, many years at BES. I will always remember her smile and quirky ways! She was truly a unique individual and will be missed by all who knew her, especially the numerous students she taught over the years. Now it's time for her to enjoy her heavenly reward!
Love you Frannie!
